CHRONICLE OLYMPIC TOUR

The Chronicle Olympic Equestrian Tour, some 30 strong, assembled Friday evening, August 18th at the Idlewild Airport where they were met by those two good horsewomen Mrs. Igor Presnikoff and Miss Vaida Boy-Ed of the Northern Virginia Travel Service. Also on hand were the co-conductors H. Stewart Treviranus and (literally last) your editor, simultaneously submitting tickets and passports, weighing baggage and putting final touches on an editorial to be posted back to The Chronicle office. This pattern was repeated as a kind friend carried his boarding pass aboard the Lufthansa jet plane from which it had to be retrieved while everyone waited.

The non-stop flight to Frankfort, Germany was smooth as silk. After changing planes we flew over the Black Forest to Munich, left our baggage at the hotel, and took the bus with a glass roof, which was to be our chariot for the next several days, to the establishment of Franz Mechlem in the Village of Pulling Near Freising. Here he keeps about 40 horses of different breeds—Holsteiners, Hannoveraners, East Friesians, Westfalian and others—besides a grey pony 40 years old. These are bought as youngsters and schooled as jumpers and in dressage. The best compete in local and national horse shows, the owner's son, Uwe, at present Student Jumping Champion of Germany. A riding school is also operated, while adjoining the indoor riding ring and overlooking it is an excellent restaurant where we all dined on venison. Among the Mechlem horses are some really enormous animals, several of them standing over 18 hands.

Not having been to bed for nearly 48 hours the party needed no night life, but collapsed into the beds of the Metropole Hotel. Next morning we drove to the outskirts of the city to the Reitakademie Muenchen-Riem which is operated for a syndicate by Prince George of Hannover, a brother-in-law of Queen Elizabeth II, since his wife is a sister of Prince Phillip. Here are two covered riding schools, ample stabling, and extensive schooling facilities including a great variety of permanent obstacles—banks, ditches, water, pulverman grab, etc. The Akademie offers extensive instruction in riding, including a three year course for professionals. It has also gone all out to cooperate in providing our Jumping Team with everything needed to carry out its training program.

We were received by Prince George on behalf of the Akademie and by our trainer and stable manager Bob Freels on behalf of the team, Captain Bill Steinkraus and Coach Bertalan de Nemethy having already departed for Rome. Bob has done a terrific job keeping his 12 horses fit and sound through an arduous—schedule of showing and shipping. He showed them to us in their roomy stables, carrying plenty of hard flesh, their coats loose and glistening. Standing at the top were Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Mann's Riviera Wonder, who would be a hot favorite to win the Individual Gold Medal if he were just a little better over water; Miss Ellen Dineen's Sinjon on which George Morris has done so well this summer; Miss Eleo Sears' Ksar d'Esprit, who has jumped over 7 feet six times and has won every Puissance class entered since arriving in Europe; and Mrs. John Galvin's Night Owl, also at the top of his form. Bob also walked with us the last course over which the horses had been schooled, explaining that the Rome obstacles are expected to be spaced at non-standard intervals and the irregular combinations which de Nemethy had designed to school horses and riders in shortening and lengthening strides approaching and between jumps.

Our next stop, close by, was the internationally famous Kieffer Saddlery, adjoining the Munich trotting track. Herr Kieffer showed us through his work rooms in the second story of a 16th century house, the ceiling supported by black oaken beams—also he took orders for at least four dressage saddles. After a drive of some 20 miles south through wheat fields and forests we stopped for lunch at Forsthaus Muhlthal, originally the residence of The Forester for the Electors of Bavaria who also used this picturesquely dwelling as a shooting lodge. After feasting on trout from the mountain stream which tumbles beneath its windows we proceeded to the adjoining village of Leutstetten where we were received by Prince Ludwig of Bavaria and his stud manager Col. Laslo von Hanthy. The latter was captain of the Hungarian Olympic Dressage Team in 1936; Colonel of the Guards Regiment of Budapest; and Commandant of the Hungarian Spanish Riding School which he founded, an offshoot of the parent organisation in Vienna. Col. Hanthy formerly had under his command a number of well known horsemen now resident in the United States, notably Bertalan de Nemethy, coach

For The Good of Racing

Raleigh Burroughs

It is common knowledge in every corner of the civilized world that a survey of racing is being conducted in Maryland at this time. Right at this very moment, some discovery that will revolutionize the sport - or increase the take - might be in the making.

The surveying group has hired a Turf journalist-economist (at two G's per month) to act as master of ceremonies. Naturally, the remuneration is for the economist facet, as Turf journalists do not drag down loot of that stature.

Knowledgeable persons have been requested to offer suggestions. I must admit I was a bit flattered when I received a letter soliciting my solution of the state's racing problems.

There was no money in the envelope. What I do will be for the good of racing.

A plea to draw up a plan of operation for a huge and generally-solvent industry comes to a man but once in a lifetime. Only an idiot would pass up such an opportunity.

Or maybe it's the other way around.

Recognizing the fact that all great social and economic leaders, and benefactors of mankind in general place themselves in a position inviting criticism, and even ridicule, one must be true to one's patriotic (or at least civic) duty.

Therefore, with a certain amount of humility (but not enough to be sickening about it) I shall make suggestions.

Some of them may seem impractical.

Objective View

In approaching a problem of this immensity it is best, first of all, to back away.

Then you can examine things objectively.

You ask yourself questions, and then think up answers.

First Question: What single factor makes people stay away from the races?

Discussion (this may be a bit one-sided): The answer, of course, is "crowds."

That's the biggest complaint you hear.

"I'd love to go to the races," many potential clients say, "but I can't stand the jam of humanity on the way to the mutuels windows."

The tracks are doing absolutely nothing about this. They persist in permitting crowds to clutter up their plants, keeping people away.

Some of the happiest days I ever spent at a racetrack were at Bowie in the '30's - on a week day. Then, you could stroll 'way down to the end of the grandstand and spread your RACING FORM and other essentials over three seats. If you took a place within three yards of another customer, he glared at you.

Comfort

Under such circumstances, you could handicap without the distractions that beset the horse-picker of today. You waited until the last minute to make your wager, walked leisurely to the window, awakened the mutuels clerk and bought your ticket.

That was racing at its finest. It hasn't been that way in Maryland (or anywhere) for many a day, except at a couple of the harness tracks.

Solution: Racetracks should make an honest effort to discourage crowds.

This will not be as easy as it sounds. Daily, irresponsible mobs storm the courses seeking admission. Some radicals in such throngs even offer money for the privilege.

Stern measures will be necessary if truly rigid restrictions are to be applied.

The managements have one strong point in their favor and it can be used as a weapon: Many of those who so brashly force their way into what is, actually, private property, DO NOT SHOW A PROFIT ON THE DAY.

Farseeing track heads may use this surprising fact to eliminate the crowds and make the game better for people.

Without risking the charge of unfair discrimination, they could emphasize the truism that gambling on the races is not for the weak and incompetent. Thus, they could institute a rule denying admission to mutuels-players who fail to show a profit on three consecutive afternoons.

Reinstatement could be requested after a term of days, if submitted in writing, and accompanied by a personal bond or letter of credit from a recognized loan company.

This would serve the twofold purpose of eliminating the nuisances who are not carrying enough money to do the track any

The winner is a gelded chestnut son of Hasty Road-Leslie Grey, by *Isolater, bred by E. B. Ryan. T. M. Waller trains him and Sammy Boulmetis was in the saddle. The run was worth $18,192.50 net.

Vagrancy (Tue., Aug. 30)

The 10th running of The Vagrancy was the feature of Aqueduct's program on the third day of its 24 day meeting. A $25,000 added handicap stakes, for fillies and mares, 3-year-olds and up, it was run at seven furlongs, and drew eleven starters.

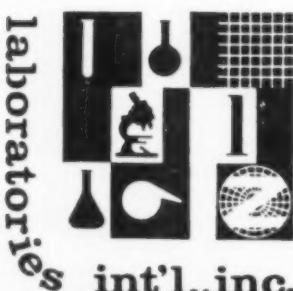

Circle M Farm's Mommy Dear hung a three length defeat on K. D. Godby's favored *Wiggle II. F. J. Viggiani's Craftiness was third, and H. P. Headley's Aesthetic, fourth. The time was 1.22 3/5 and the track sloppy.

Mommy Dear is a 4-year-old chestnut filly, by Polynesian-Miss Mommy, by *Bull Dog, bred by Mrs. E. S. Moore. E. C. Hayward trains her and Bill Boland was the rider. The filly added $18,680 to her coffers.

Willer's Better Bee caboosed under the wire two and three-quarter lengths in back of Mail Order. The winner was clocked at 1.22 2/5 over a fast track.

Golden Notes is a 6-year-old gelding by Beau Max-Melodic, by Blue Larkspur, trained by W. J. Hirsch. The victory netted his connections $8,750.

Washington Park Futurity

Nine two-year-olds answered the starter's call for the 22nd running of The Washington Park Futurity, a $100,000 added allowance stakes at six and one-half furlongs, on Sat., Sept. 3.

Damm's Arab Road crossed the wire in fourth position. The winner set a new track record of 1.15 1/5 for the 6 1/2 furlongs, three seconds under Venetian Way's mark set last September.

MORE WINNERS COME FROM KEENELAND

Steeplechasing at Aqueduct

F. Eugene Dixon, Jr.'s five-year-old Cartagena received 21 lbs. from Mrs. Ogden Phipps' Neji and defeated the American champion by a length and a half in the $10,000 added Harbor Hill on Thursday, September 1st. Neji, making a return to racing after his short and unlucky campaign abroad early in 1959, carried 19 lbs., and ran a remarkably good race. Ridden by Paddy Smithwick, the ten-year-old gelding was restrained off the pace for more than turn of the course, moved into contention without any apparent effort, and appeared to be getting to the winner as they raced to the final jump. Ranging up into second position at that point, Neji jumped the final fence about three lengths behind Cartagena, then under mild urging narrowed that margin to a little more than a length. Scottie Schulhofer, aboard Cartagena went to the whip and the C. T. Chinery - bred gelding responded well enough to hold Neji safe, crossing the wire with something in reserve, as Neji appeared to hang slightly in the final hundred yards. Two lengths further back, Basil Bee ran very creditably to garner the show award with Hill Tie, *Venetian Glass and *Romeo next in that order.

Third Victory For Cartagena

Shortly after the break Jimmy Murphy and *Venetian Glass went to the front and led for more than a turn of the course while running under restraint. *Venetian Glass, a mare, imported from England by R. K. Mellon in 1959, was making her first start since a victorious effort in the International Gold Cup at Rolling Rock. While jumping well for the first few fences with Murphy keeping her under restraint, she appeared to lack the verve shown in her races at Rolling Rock. Schulhofer held Cartagena just off the pace in second place. Basil Bee was next followed by Hill Tie, Neji, and finally *Romeo which trailed for much of the race, and got pretty deep into his fences.

Entering the far side the second time, *Venetian Glass bobbed at the first fence and lost the lead to Cartagena. Jumping poorly over the next two, the mare dropped back to last place, while out in front Cartagena jumped smoothly and established a daylight advantage. Going to the far turn, Smithwick had Neji in a contending position after saving ground on the inside. Basil Bee was still second around the last turn but did not appear dangerous. Rounding the turn, Smithwick hit Neji twice and almost imperceptively Neji moved closer to the pace. Rounding into the front side, Cartagena raced for the final brush, with Neji on the outside gaining on the leader. Neither horse jumped the final fence too well, and as they raced for the wire, Smithwick hit Neji again, but as previously mentioned the Phipps' champion hung slightly and Paddy failed to punish him.

Cartagena completed the about two miles in 3:49 3/5, just a tick off the course record set by Gridiron last year. Gridiron was an expected starter in this year's renewal, but was scratched the morning of the race due to the footing and the heavy atmosphere. The Harbor Hill was the third score of brush for Cartagena, he previously having accounted for the North American at Saratoga and an overnight race at Belmont Park in June.

The Long Island area of New York

was hit by a heavy flash storm on Tuesday afternoon, leaving much of the road network under water, and causing a cancellation of the steeplechase race which had been carded for Wednesday afternoon. It was the first time within memory that a steeplechase, as one race of the card, had been cancelled because of course condition. The footing, in some places new, from last year's wear and tear, would have suffered considerably under the circumstances, and the possibility of danger to horse and rider was a very real one.

Two More For Walsh Combination

The Walsh partnership, Tommy the rider and Mickey the trainer continued their winning ways by capturing the first two races of the week.

On Monday, the D. M. Smithwick-trained entry of John Doe and Management were favored at odds on in an allowance race for non-winners of two races over hurdles. For almost a turn of the course, Lucky Count was the pacemaker, followed by Management under Evan Jackson. When the leader appeared to tire Jackson went to the front going to the far turn. Around the turn, Bob McDonald on Naval Treaty ranged up as a dangerous threat, but it was not until coming up the stretch that Tommy Walsh on Red Douglas loomed up as a dangerous threat. Going by Management, after taking the final hurdle, Walsh went to a hard drive, necked Naval Treaty, then drew out a stride or two before the wire to score by three parts of a length. Red Douglas, a four-year-old chestnut gelding by Hill Prince out of Edified races in the colors of Mrs. M. G. Walsh. This was the second hurdle score of the season for him, and in so doing he clipped two-fifths from the course mark for the mile and five eighths distance set by Black Andy in the fall of 1959.

The following day the colors of Mrs. Walsh were again first across the wire. *Petrified 2nd, an Irish import, also overlooked in the betting as was Red Douglas, romped home to the easiest kind of a victory. Taking the lead going to the second hurdle he raced his rivals into the ground and won galloping by ten lengths. In this event at a mile and seven-eighths over 10 hurdles designed for maidens, the field lacked a solid looking choice, and the public settled on L. Clay Camp's *Tantot. The Walsh-trained entry of Red Douglas and Fooths shared second consideration with Lila Phillips' Solid Mahogany, but at the wire a brace of outsiders took the second and third positions. Coventry Rock Stable's *Sir Patsy raced evenly to garner the place, while C. M. Kline's Cathness passed tired horses in the last quarter to be third another eight lengths away.

Cadillac

Where ten miles are a revelation!

As far as distance is concerned, it's but the briefest of journeys.

But even a short acquaintance with the "car of cars" constitutes a revelation in motoring.

You sense this the instant you settle into the driver's seat. Then you turn the key, press the accelerator and, ever so gently, you're off.

You roll into traffic in silence. Wheel and pedals require but the slightest pressure, and your hands seem to acquire a magic touch.

Then, as city streets blend into spacious boulevards, Cadillac's magnificent riding qualities come more keenly to notice.

You seem almost to float over the highway. Flaws in its surface are simply absorbed and the car's inbred mastery is quickly apparent.

KENTUCKY

ROMAN DEAD

Roman, a bay horse foaled in 1937, by *Sir Gallahad II out of *Buckup, by Buchan, died recently at Lou Doherty's Stallion Station, Lexington, Ky. He was bred by the late Joseph E. Widener, who raced him for three years. A. C. Ernst acquired Roman in 1950 and he was syndicated by Lou Doherty, who was Mr. Ernst's farm manager at the time.

Roman was one of Kentucky's most successful sires and his get won over $6,000,000. He was the leading juvenile sire in 1949, 1953, and 1954. In 1953 he was third to Bull Lea and *Hellopolis on the U. S. leading sire list. During his stud career he sired the top notch stakes winners Hasty Road, Cosmic Missile, Princess Lygia, Queen Hopeful, I Will, Romanita and many others. Forty-eight stakes winners were among his progeny.

PINHOOKERS FOILED

In order to break up the practice of "pinhooking" - those who have been buying yearlings at the Summer Sales to re-sale for a better price in the fall auctions - the Breeders' Sales Company, Lexington, Ky., has barred from entry in the fall sales any yearlings sold in the summer auctions.

NEW JERSEY

NEW JERSEY BREEDERS SHOW

The third annual Bloodstock Show, sponsored by the Thoroughbred Horse Breeders' Association of N. J., was held at Monmouth Park's Wolf Hill Farm on Saturday afternoon, August 27, with nearly fifty mares and foals in competition.

Taking the William G. Helis Memorial Trophy (for broodmares) for the second consecutive year was the Woodside Stable, owned by Mr. and Mrs. M. Erlanger of Oakhurst, with the 5-year-old mare Scarlet Tanager, by Double Jay - *Red Sky, in foal to *Rasper II. Second award went to Ruff Acres Farm of Freehold for their mare Girl Crazy, an eight-year-old daughter of Blue Swords - Say Gal, in foal to *Roistar. Girl Crazy is the dam of Ruff Acres' N. J. Futurity winner Alerted Girl. Third ribbon was presented to the Helis Stock Farm of Jobstown for the 12-year-old *Bull Dog mare Twisted Trail out of Spiral Pass. Twisted Trail is in foal to Helioscope. The fourth prize was given to the J. E. McAuliff's mare Lodenstone, a 6 year old daughter of Johns Joy - Adamantine, in foal to McClellan.

In the foal division, the Bernadotte Farm Trophy, presented by Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. H. Johnson, Jr. of Tinton Falls, was awarded McAuliff's bay colt by Needles out of Lodenstone. The breeder-owner is president of the Triangle Conduit and Cable Company, with headquarters in New Brunswick, N. J. Second prize went to Mrs. James Purdey of Greenfields, Holmdel, for her bay filly by Ace Admiral - Near Home, with third ribbon going to a bay filly by Spartan Valor - Drifting Maid, owned by the Helis Stock Farm. The fourth award went to a bay colt by Bimalech - Penny Bouquet, owned by the Carrier Farms of Belle Mead.

The Show was judged by David Dallas Odell, President of the Pennsylvania Horse Breeders' Association, assisted by Mrs. Odell. Cash awards were presented to the finalists by William C. Lynn, assistant secretary of the New Jersey Department of Agriculture in recognition of the importance and value of the Thoroughbred breeding industry to New Jersey agriculture.

BACKBONE TO DARIO STUD

Christopher J. Devine, who raced the good horse Backbone (Worden - Shooting High, by Hyperion) with great success, largely in New England, has decided to stand the horse next season at B. A. Dario's stud near Cumberland, Rhode Island. He will be booked to 34 mares, Mr. Devine reserving 15 services. He also owns a share in Nashua.

DIRCE

When Middleburg, Va., owner-trainer John Burrows' Dirce finished fourth in the Ocean City Handicap, a mile and one-half over turf, at Atlantic City, Aug. 24, he added $1,078 to his earnings for 1960. Dirce now has $11,318 for the year out of eight starts and three victories, and $29,013 for his career.

Dirce is a 5-year-old bay gelding, by *Tennyson II out of the Tourbillon mare *Turbulente, bred by the late G. L. Ohrstrom.

Mr. Burrows, a retired automobile dealer, took up racing and training when he found himself with too much time on his hands. Last year he trained a successful two horse stable, and it looks as though Mr. Burrows is staying ahead of the game again this year.

MEXICAN RACING

The 18th season of racing at the Hipodromo de las Americas track is drawing to a close, after 10 months of intense activity. Now racing is limited to Saturdays and Sundays only.

Exception to this rule may be special racing cards to be set up for Friday, September 15 or Saturday the 16, in programs commemorating the 150th anniversary of Mexican Independence.

Formal racing in Mexico will shut down right after the annual national holidays in mid-September. But holiday is a short one, with resumption of racing for the new season beginning in late October or early November.

Ace jockey of this season is Panama's Guillermo Sanchez, who has entered the winning circle the most number of times. He will probably be crowned 1959-60 season Champion Jockey. Apolinario "Polo" Campos is the top trainer of the season.

While cards have been just standard in recent weeks, the San Jose de Cabo Handicap, run off two weeks ago, was interesting in that it was a duel between American horses. A six furlong sprint for recent winners at the local track, race had seven entries including Sniper, Winnies First, Heavenly Bliss, Partenon II, No Return, Cardinal Kid and Great Grant.

Sniper, owned by Ted Ansell, who also trains the horse, took the event easily in 1:13, over a fast track, a half length ahead of Heavenly Bliss. Winner, a 2 to 1 favorite, returned 31 pesos ($3.48) for each 10 peso ticket (80 cents).

Another special event, with track proceeds going to the Mexican Institute for Rehabilitation of Invalids, was won by Montana's Speed, 3-year-old gelding owned by Omar Mezquita, and trained by Ruben Olvera. The Rehabilitation Handicap raised about $80,000 dollars for the Institute. Apart from the racing card, movie and theatre stars and ranchero singers turned out. And there was the traditional parade of "charros" before post time.

GALLORETTE'S DAUGHTER WINS

A three year old by Native Dancer out of the famous American mare Gallorette, the filly Courbette scored her first win of the season following two seconds when she took the Hollywood Handicap at Leopards-town, Ireland. Favored at 3-2 in a field of five, Courbette won by a couple of lengths.

She was also the winner of her only race at two years.

PRIZE FIGHTING TRAINER

Like somebody said, people in Thoroughbred racing come from all over and from all walks of life. One which came from all over is Gilbert Guariglia. You'd almost guess from his name that he started out as an opera singer or perhaps one of Italy's revolving prime ministers. He didn't.

Gilbert Guariglia was born in New York City in Yorkville which is, of course, mostly German. By the time World War I came around, Guariglia was a robust fifteen years of age. He faked his age and got into the 14th Cavalry of the U. S. Army. That was the beginning of his interest in horses. But, in the process of getting into the horse business, Mr. Guariglia got into the prize fighting business. His good colonel ordered Guariglia to represent the Cavalry boxing team as a fly weight. He won his first match against a man named Powell who was the flyweight champion of Texas. Following his maiden win, young Guariglia met a lot of good ones and won his share of bouts. He appeared to have a promising future as a professional fighter when he got out of the army. He liked the horse business better though.

In 1922, Guariglia became a jockey and toured the western tracks. He didn't get to New York until 1930. In 1939 he got his first license as a trainer and he's been at it ever since.

He now has the filly Geechee Lou (what a horrible name) which you may recall finished third in the CCA Oaks won by Quill.

If Guariglia runs up against a trainer which he can't best with his horses on the track, he can probably wait until after the animals are cooled out and then go punch his rival in the nose.

THE CHRONICLE

Chronicle Cover

The painting reproduced on our cover is that of Ancestor, the "Steeplechaser of the Year" for 1959. The bay gelding was foaled in 1949 and is by Challedon out of Bloodroot, a Blue Larkspur mare. He was bred by Ogden Phipps, and ran in the colors of Mrs. Ogden Phipps. Ancestor started his career on the flat and as a 3-year-old won the Discovery Handicap at old Aqueduct. He made his debut over jumps as a 5-year-old. He won the Broad Hollow and Brook Steeplechase Handicaps, carrying 160 and 162 pounds, respectively, in 1959.

His sire Challedon was twice voted "Horse of the Year" and his dam, Bloodroot, was a champion producer; she wore the crown of "Broodmare of the Year".

Mrs. Ogden Phipps commissioned Richard Stone Reeves to do the painting, which shows A. P. (Paddy) Smithwick in the saddle.

LIKES OFF TRACKS BETTER NOW

Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., prominent New England breeder and a member of The Jockey Club, has a pretty good six-year-old named The Crack, trained by M. J. Brasnahan Jr. One supposed flaw in the horse's repertoire was that he didn't like "off" tracks - "can't run a lick if they so much as spit on the track."

Last Saturday at Rockingham Park, it had rained hard. According to "Daily Racing Form", trainer Bresnahan attempted during the morning to declare The Crack from the $10,000 Lawrence Handicap, but the stewards ordered the sprinter to compete. He did. He forced Dandy Blitzen's pace, only a head behind, for five-eighths of a mile, then pulled ahead to win by a neck, running the six furlongs in 1:11 3/5 on a sloppy track. Paid his backers $13.20 for a $2 ticket. Earned his owner $5,300 net. Likes "off" tracks a little better now.

AQUEDUCT MEETING UP

As compared with its summer meeting last year, the betting at Aqueduct in 1960 was up 2 per cent, admissions 27 per cent.

In almost any house organ of large industrial concern, you find which department is winning the winter bowling championship, which employees got married and/or had babies, and inevitably pictures of two or three employees who have been around for the past two hundred years. The idea of the pictures of the people who have been around for a long time is to show what a dandy place that company is to work for. (It could, of course, indicate that the long-service employees haven't enough gumption to or are too incompetant to find other jobs.)

Well, those industrial concerns will have to go some to get into the same league with the New York Racing Association. In that fine group, the associations not only last for many years, they last for generations.

Publicity man Bob Kelly has a son Tony who is in horse identification. Steward Myron Davis has a son, Dave, who works in the office. Just about the prize, though, is Mrs. Clare who is the only woman track superintendent in American Racing. Mrs. Clare presides over the destiny of the premises at Saratoga. She has reached the mandatory retirement age of 65 and will retire shortly after the completion of this season's August racing. She took over in 1940. But that isn't half the story.

Mrs. Clare's husband was track superintendent for sixteen years preceding his death in 1940, during which time his wife assisted him. Then, when Mr. Clare died, the Saratoga people figured that nobody would know as much about the operation of the racing plant as the woman who had been right in the middle of things for those sixteen years, so they offered the job to the widow. She took it and, if you have ever been to Saratoga, you know she ran just about as beautiful a race track as you can find anywhere in the world. The horses don't run six furlongs in 1:08 there but they don't break down much either.

And, to round things out, Mrs. Clare's successor will be thirty-seven year old Edward McDermott who has been assistant track superintendent at Jamaica for the past six years. Mr. McDermott's father, Michael, was superintendent at Empire City for more than a quarter of a century when Thoroughbreds raced there.

Even the Ptolomies didn't have it by much over the New York Racing Association. R. L. Clark

R. JAMES SPEERS

The patriarch of Thoroughbred breeding and racing in Western Canada, the late R. James Speers, will ever be remembered by devotees of the turf sport in Canada, and particularly Western Canada. To perpetuate his name and pay tribute to the magnificent work he has done for their cause, the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association of Western Canada has donated a trophy for annual competition at Assiniboia Downs, Winnipeg, to be known as The R. James Speers Trophy and awarded to the winner of the Speers Memorial Handicap.

The race was inaugurated last season at The Downs, following a contest sponsored by the track to select a name for the annual race. 10,000 race fans participated in the contest and the majority favored the final name chosen. Lucien Maynard, president of the western division of the HBPA, offered the trophy on behalf of the organization. The trophy, a unique masterpiece of craftsmanship, takes the form of an open book in silver. On the left-hand page is a remarkably lifelike likeness of Mr. Speers, while on the righthand page is inscribed the following tribute:

"The R. James Speers Trophy, presented to Assiniboia Downs for the annual running of the R. James Speers Memorial Handicap by the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association of Western Canada, Lucien Maynard, president 1960, to honor R. James Speers whose courage, vision, enterprise and unwavering optimism enabled him to establish Thoroughbred racing on a sound foundation in Western Canada. The name of R. James Speers, whose home was in Winnipeg, but whose proudest boast was that he was a Canadian, has been enshrined in the imperishable records of the sport which he loved." E.O.

Jimmy Pitt, trainer, says:

"The best winning combination our stable ever had," says Jimmy Pitt, "is Bally Ache and Absorbine! After every race, Bally Ache cools out with an Absorbine wash."

This is sound advice from the trainer of America's leading 3-year-old—recently sold to Turf-land stables for $1,250,000.

"It's our job to bring him up to his races in the best possible condition," Mr. Pitt goes on. "That's why I use Absorbine daily—as a wash and tightener. No other liniment I've found does such a good all-round job."

Used either full strength or in a wash, Absorbine is consistently effective, yet safe—won't cause blistering or loss of hair. The large, long-lasting bottle is still only $2.50 at any druggist's. Also available in one-gallon size.

HUNTING

More Hope For Heaves

The Qualification of Isolde

Barbara B. Montgomery

My eleven - year - old mare, Isolde, qualified this last fall with the Millwood Hunt. She not only hunted first flight, but also displayed outstanding courage and brains in the field. This is indeed miraculous because two and a half years ago Isolde had been sent to the same hunt club to be humanely "put down" as she was suffering from a very chronic and advanced case of "the heaves".

Isolde's Case History

Her former owners tell me that about six years ago she started with a light cough. As time went on, the cough became more constant. They had several veterinarians check her, and she was treated with various powders, etc. After a few pulp and molasses and a specially concocted oatless horse feed. Her response was immediate and dramatic.... So was my assistant, Faith Water's, and mine. We actually sat down and wept from sheer exhaustion and relief. At last there was hope that Isolde might get well.

As the days went by, her cough and the horrible clenching in her flank grew less and less, until finally they disappeared. It was indeed a miracle. She became brighter and began to gain weight. Her coat grew sleek. She was becoming a magnificent animal.

It wasn't long before she could hack lightly and take an occasional fence. (Isolde had been a qualified hunter with a neighboring hunt club before she became years of this, her breathing changed to the double lift. From then on she rapidly progressed to uselessness and devastation. She was then sent to the Millwood Hunt to be destroyed.

This is when I met her; and what a beautiful, miserable creature she was! Thanks to her owners, she became mine when I explained to them my interest in the research of this heretofore hopeless illness - "heaves". I had already reclaimed four horses and was very keen to try Isolde; despite the fact that she was practically dying, I could only hope that she would live long enough for us to figure out a feeding program that would help her.

After several unsuccessful attempts, we almost gave up. The soaked timothy hay, commercial horse feed, and diuretics that had worked on the others just did not help her at all. Then followed a frustrating period of trial and error which finally led to the answer - soaked beet ill.) We all felt that she would never be able to come back to hunting even occasionally - let alone full schedule.

As she continued to feel better, we had many questions to worry us: (1) Could a horse maintain itself on the soaked beet pulp, special horse feed routine? (She could not seem to tolerate hay and oats. We tried her on them from time to time.) (2) What about lung damage? (She had been awfully sick for a long time.) (3) Would she go back to heaves for no apparent reason?

Despite our fretting, Isolde continued to thrive. People who knew her before she came down with heaves said they had never seen her look better. She was actually fat and bouncy.

It is interesting to note that, during her first year of recovery, although she'd cough some and blow out when worked, she maintained a fine coat and an air of well being. I took her part way on a hunt occasionally and she did beautifully. She was in good spirits and appeared to have lots of fun. Her confidence in herself and us grew. It became more and more difficult to believe that she had ever been sick.

Looking back on her reclamation, I sincerely believe that time and rest were very important. Isolde felt even better during the second year than during the first. In fact, she began feeling so keen and full of beans this past early fall that we decided to see if she was up to drag hunting regularly. Because neither Faith nor I were physically up to hunting much, we chose a very capable young lady, Pat Greely, to ride her. So the test began.

Every hunt Isolde was first flight and Faith and I were at each check to be watchful for any sign of fatigue or bad breathing. There was absolutely none, except from Faith and me as we rushed frantically to get to the checks on time.

Isolde finished the 1959 fall season with the Millwood Hunt and received her certificate of qualification. She was also honored by being the junior field master's horse on their special day. We were so thrilled that it certainly made up for the disappointment of neither of us having been able to hunt her during her comeback season.

Isolde is not our first horse reclaimed from heaves, but she certainly was our most challenging and inspiring one. Though I must admit that our very first case, Lucky, runs a close second. Lucky was reclaimed five years ago on the wet timothy hay and diuretics regime. Since then he has made quite a record for himself. He won two hunter pace events at Millwood, served faithfully in their riding school, and has been shown successfully. Even though he must be close to twenty now, he still carries his young mistress, Miss Maggie Anderson, safely and with great spirit in the hunting field. This past year Lucky had a flare up of heaves, but they subsided quickly when he was put on the soaked beet pulp and oatless Horse Feed diet.

Since Isolde's reclamation through controlled diet, stabling, and handling, we have taken some eighteen or so severely heave-afflicted horses, because we just had to learn more about the general nature of this disease. In this way, the Montgomery Barnyard Heave Research Project was born.

For the past two years many horses in various stages of this disease have come to us for study and treatment. As a result of our research, a special feed for horses with heaves which is known as Wirthmore New Hope is now being distributed. Because of this, we are now able to help hundreds of horses back to health and usefulness who otherwise would have had to be destroyed.

There have been many exciting milestones in Montgomery Barnyard Heave Research this past year and we already have many plans for this coming year. We must progress further! It is inspiring to realize that our attempt to challenge the impossible came about because of the irresistible beauty and will to live of a truly great mare named Isolde.

Thoughts On British Hunting

Harry Nicholas

The Heythrop

I hunted with this pack the most and knew them the best. Until after the war, under the leadership of Captain R. E. Wallace, M.F.H., the country was not considered the best because of plough and areas of stone walls which many fox hunters in England believe monotonous. Actually today it has no more plough than most hunting countries and what there is, is mostly "light plough;" also well-tended stone walls do not demand wire to hold stock.

Ronnie Wallace is an outstanding huntsman who has developed a very fine pack of hounds. The twenty minute bursts in Leicestershire are terrific in their way, but hunting on and on and on with the Heythrop, although different, is very great fox hunting. I had some fifteen days with qualifying certificate.

Captain Wallace carrying the horn and never had a poor day; perhaps we were in bad country with too much wire, or maybe in too much woodland or plough, but these hounds always showed sport. I may have been very lucky, but they also afforded me my best day in England.

That was on Saturday, February 1st, from the meet at Fifield House between Burford and Stow-on-the-Wold. Twenty-seven minutes from the second draw across and then back over their famous vale to a large covert for a needed ten-minute check. Out came three foxes, but hounds stayed with the hunted fox. We ran sometimes fast, at times slow, across William the Conqueror's famous Foss Road and over Upper and Lower Slaughter, through numerous coverts for over three hours and killed. Of course we changed foxes, maybe three or four times, but what a day's hunting! It was reported to be over a seven-mile point and seventeen miles as hounds ran. There were some large and exciting hedges with ditches in the vale, considerable timber, and then lots of stone walls. As we had no second horses we had to pull out only twenty minutes before the kill, leaving those lucky few on second horses going on. That was as fine a day as anyone could have.

Besides Captain Wallace, the Heythrop has two other Masters; the keen and handsome Mrs. Duncan Mackinnon and Lt. Col. Raymond Barrow. The latter, acting as Field Master, is a person who really works at his job. He is out five days a week, knows every inch of his country, anticipates the huntsman's thoughts and occasional ill temper, sends on members of his field for possible views, and keeps a large and keen field (two hundred and fifty or more) under control. The other faucet of this "taut ship" is the well-known Charles Parker, who doubles in brass as earth stopper, terrier man, fox adviser and "bolter." He has the reputation of having a nose like a hound and the brain of a fox. Charley Parker may have control of his fox population and Lt. Col. Barrow his field, but Ronnie Wallace controls those hounds. They adore him and trust one another. The excellent whippers-in bring them to the meet, but when the huntsman arrives to mount one of his many sturdy horses, his hounds almost knock him down with joyful affection. From that point on, both with the bitch and mixed dog packs, there is the finest collaboration between huntsman and hounds. Those hounds never stop working for him nor he for them. He seemed faultless in his thoroughness in drawing a covert and uncanny in his casts. Hound's heads seldom are up and their cry is of the best. Although sparing with the horn its use is precisely right for the moment. He knows his country to perfection, and has that knack of being in the right spot at the right time. His first whipper-in, I noticed, used a whistle for a view. He too has had great training and experience and was tops in his work of bringing on hounds, besides being one of the best of Kennel huntsman.

There is also Lt. Col. J. B. S. Chamberlayne, the hard working Honorary Secretary, to complete this well-organized hunt. He with the help of his charming wife handle all subscriptions, the "cap" and the two half crowns from every person hunting. I have seen him stop at a gate near the meet, collecting caps, greeting farmers by name and welcoming strangers. With full pockets and a stuffed money bag he then must disappear somewhere to be rid of the lucre, because he is out all day and picks up the late corners or those he might have missed, and he rides on with the best of them.

Most keen hunting people, whether rightly or wrongly, are prone to criticize the work of a huntsman or hounds; some believe it part of the sport. But I would venture to say that the results attained by this group of sporting men and Mrs. Mackinnon are hard to argue against. There is no grimness (if you understand what I mean) and little jealousy. I saw: definite results in the handling of wire; cheerful farmers; and a most loyal, amusing and fun field. One day hounds checked in a plough, the huntsman was casting, the field was too close, and I heard Ronnie Wallace yell out "stop riding all over me and my hounds, it is two o'clock and we could go home. All of you are just looking ahead to find a way over the next fence!" Then in an undertone "and so am I." Another time at a very rare refusal he jeered at his horse "you brute, you know the fox, hounds, and even the field have left us!"

At dinner one evening Captain Wallace was asked "you have killed over a hundred and fifty brace this season; yet you have more foxes than ever, why?" He replied, over his glass of brandy, to the effect that if a farmer has confidence in the hunt's ability to kill foxes, and if the Master thoroughly hunts his entire country (the good and the bad) the farmers stay happy. In fact they take the huntsman where foxes can be found, and if one is run to ground they eagerly help Charles Parker dig him out. This "bolting" is very different than in the States. Foxes are dug to be killed, the earths are shallow, the ground is soft and in minutes a fox can be extricated and is generally pulled down by the waiting pack. Personally I like to see foxes get away. In England this cannot be. Foxes do great harm and must be kept under control. The farmers want the hounds to kill; therefore the onus of killing is on the huntsman.

"Tribute to an Old Time Sportsman"

Now that the cubbing season is nearly over and the hunting season about to open, it seems fitting to add a tribute (among many we are certain) to an old friend and great sportsman, from two of his admirers.

The late Everett Lake Crawford, former polo player, fine horseman and fox hunter for over fifty years - a loyal Princetonian alumnus who did much for his alma mater over the years - a great family man and doting grandfather - a fine citizen and civic leader who did much for all his communities, Portchester, Millbrook and Aiken.

He loved all sport related to the horse and liked to share his finely schooled mounts.

A splendid and conscientious horse show judge, who judged 'em as he saw and knew them, and whose little "preamble" over the loud speaker to the crowd before the Corinthian Class explaining the utility of the traditional hunting costume, was always enjoyed by all.

He was the type of sportsman, rare in every age, but rarer and fast disappearing in our time. He will be sorely missed by those who knew him best and by many in the field, ring and countryside.

He was a devoted reader of The Chronicle, which he often quoted. Eleanor Langley Fletcher and S. Victor Constant, Colonel, U. S. A. (Retired)

HORSE SHOWS

Tidewater

Despite uncertain weather, over 200 die-hard exhibitors turned out for the Tidewater (Sea)-Horse and Pony Association Horse Show, held as a benefit for the U. S. Equestrian Team, at Greenbriar Farms, Norfolk, Va. Daily rain jeopardized the possibilities of conducting this horse show as scheduled, but optimism paid off and most of the classes were run off as programmed, although a few of the Hunter and Jumper classes were postponed from Saturday night until Sunday, due to a downpour that turned the ring into a veritable swamp. The horse show committee deserves a big hand for the efficient manner with which they coped with the difficulties always found in wet weather. Every effort was made to assist with bogged-down vehicles, etc., and never a temper frayed. The only real unpleasantness occurred during the wee hours Sunday when unknown vandals did malicious damage to electrical connections and to the portable electric organ owned by R. E.

Barrett, Jr., Show Manager.

The ever-changing ground conditions were a good test of the abilities of the jumping horses. One class would take place under ideal conditions and an hour later a class would be run over rivulets, puddles and mud; consequently, with very few exceptions, the awards were widely scattered. In only three of the Divisions were the Championships not in doubt, although the Reserve awards could have gone to almost anyone right up until the Stake classes.

GUESS WHO? (See In The Country)

Friday, September 9, 1960
Montpelier

The Montpelier Horse Show is one of the most enjoyable shows I have ever attended. It is also a well organized and well run show with a location that offers one a breath taking view as the show grounds are high in the hills overlooking the Vermont capital city.

The show has done much to raise the standard of horsemanship in northern Vermont and offers a dressage class, a combined training test, FEI jumper classes, and hunter classes run over a course which is a real test of the ability of a hunter as a cross country horse. Chairman of the show is Heber England, District Commissioner of the Montpelier Pony Club, who devotes many hours of each year to organizing the show so that the schedule goes off without a delay. To support the efforts of our Equestrian Team, twenty-five cents of each entry fee is contributed to the U.S.E.T.

A special feature of the show is the presence of horses and riders from four Vermont riding camps - Teela-Wooken,

Southern Michigan

PH.A.

Ten years ago the Southern Michigan Chapter of the Professional Horseman's Association gave its first horse show, with 50 entries competing in eight classes at the Alger race course in Metamora.

On Aug. 7th, the PHA finished a two-day show that saw almost 500 entries competing in 32 classes. The setting, for the first time, was the precisely manicured show grounds of Bloomfield Open Hunt, Bloomfield Hills, Michigan.

With the show in a new setting to make it more centrally located for exhibitors, PHA members reminisced about the early shows. In that first show a decade ago, ten members had done all the work with the help of their wives who handled the paper work in the secretary's stand. Other wives put in a long hot day behind the refreshment stand, cooking and serving hot dogs, hamburgers, sloppy joes and coffee. In their cash register at the show's end was over $100 - almost as much as the show itself had made. Spectators watched the show from the side of the hill, picnicking, sunning themselves and watching their children play on the slope. N.F.

Sussex County

The 24th annual Sussex County Farm and Horse Show again played to capacity audiences at Branchville, New Jersey. At the end of the five day show, Farm and Horse Show officials reported that, despite cloudy weather and intermittent rains for four days, attendance totalled more than 40,000 persons with exhibitors coming from ten states, the District of Columbia, Texas and Canada.

A varied program from hunters to harness horses, jumpers to Quarter Horses, ponies in hand and working, 4-H and saddle horse classes, was offered, but the main attraction to the audience was the open jumper division. Each year the audience looks forward in particular to the Puissance Class and the $2500 Jumper Stake, where the jumpers compete over outstanding and difficult courses designed by Dr. Bob Rost, whose courses have won recognition in the annual Jump Course Designer's Contest. The piece de resistance this year was a towered stone wall, which one exhibitor described as "feeling as though you were riding at a castle". In the spectacular Puissance, eight horses had a clean round. In the first jump-off three remained in the running - Dave Kelley on Navy Salute, Miss Kathy Kusner on Windsor Castle, and Al Fiore on Grey Aero. Fiore then took down one obstacle for four faults, while Kelley and Miss Kusner went clean again. The capacity crowds waited in dead silence as Dave Kelley entered the ring, and then the arena rang with cheers as he cleared the two obstacles, one of which was the formidable stone wall raised to six feet six inches. Again dead silence reigned as Miss Kusner entered the ring, but Windsor Castle took down the painted rails and then refused the high stone wall, giving Navy Salute, owned by Ben Duffy of Armonk, N.Y., the blue.

The working hunter ponies are becoming increasingly popular in New Jersey and Wizard of Oz, owned and shown by Susan W. Burr of Kimberton, Pa., was small pony champion with 13 points; reserve going to Jingle Bells, owned and shown by Joanne Yeaton of Newton, New Jersey, with 12 points. Twenty-two large ponies were shown and Fine 'N Dandy, owned by Malcolm Hirsh, Jr. of Far Hills, N.J., and ridden by Lynn Allegaert, topped Minute Man, shown by Miss Betsy Gerson of Closter, N.J., for the tri-color, on the hack-off.

Throughout the show, the juniors who had entered the Best Child Rider competition, were scored on their riding by a special equitation judge and the top award went to Miss Sandra Nagro of Morristown, N.J.

Coon Tree Farm

The Coon Tree Farm Show attracted a large number of riders. All the outside course classes were held on the hillsides of the farm and included many of the stone walls of the Groton Hunt's country and a ten foot ditch-bank combination.

The class causing the most excitement was the Hunt Teams. Fortunately, appointments did not count, as one team was made up pressing the show's announcer into service as a rider, with the most startling hunting attire - borrowed formal hunting boots, Bermuda shorts and a Tyrolean hat!

Litchfield

In spite of morning showers and afternoon humidity, the 121st anniversary Litchfield Horse Show attracted a goodly crowd of spectators as well as a solid entry. Hunter entries were light for a show which caters to hunters, horsemanship, and hacks, but as usual the children turned out in droves, and often topped their elders as well as winning in their own divisions.

Although several outside entries came up to challenge them, the local field hunters captured top honors in that division. Peter and Cindy Howe's good chestnut Spotsylvania was champion with a 5 pt. lead over Hedda von Goeben's perennial winner Warranty, who nosed out Winkie Metcalf's The Mook by an additional point. However, Warranty came back to win his third leg on the Litchfield Co. Hounds Challenge Trophy, having won in 1957 and 1959, and retire the handsome piece of silver.

Marie Louise Mills was beaming as she galloped from the hunter course back to the ring for the horsemanship finals, and although she was left out of the championship ribbons in the final elimination, she had reason to smile, having secured the junior championship with her good going Chilco by virtue of a win in the stake.

No championship was awarded in the new pony working hunter division, but Dick Fancher's Lady Be Good lived up to her name by breaking her maiden in that class and beating more experienced contenders to take the open as well, over Sue Milbrath's limit winner, Hot Toddy. Starberry

CALGARY RIDING CLUB COUNCIL CHANGES NAME

At a meeting held some time ago, the Calgary Council of Riding Clubs changed its name to the Southern Alberta Council of Riding Clubs. The new group represents all riding clubs in the area south from Olds to the U.S. border and including Calgary. The Central Alberta Riding Club, formed recently, comprises representative groups from Olds north to Edmonton. Rule books have been made up by both Councils for the benefit of anyone interested in light horse riding activities. The main purpose of the new books will be to resolve the controversy on judging of various Ghymkhana events. Horse show classes will, of course, continue to be judged by rules of the Canadian Horse Shows Association.

Wamogo

Miss Sue Terhune rode Holley Hill Stables' Poteen to her second leg on the Wamogo Horse Show Challenge Trophy, defeating 18 competitors over going that was a true test of a good mover. Sunny skies and a good breeze just failed to dry a ring that had been rain-soaked the previous day, and many earlier rounds in a variety of classes had left it very cuppy. Despite the rough going, and a long day's work, this honest chestnut mare turned in a performance that was a credit both to her owner and to her rider.

A strictly "fun" show, Wamogo's fifth year drew an entry of 67 competitors in horsemanship, and 59 horses were shown in the various hack, hunter and jumper classes.

champion "eating" animals. It would appear that this type of criticism has now extended to the horse show ring. Kay Meston of Demaine, Saskatchewan, who edits a light horse publication printed in that province, recently levelled criticism at horse shows, particularly the breeding classes.

"Nothing is more discouraging," she noted, "to the interested new breeder than to enter several recognized horse shows and see the same horse placed down at one and up at another or to see one given top prize which is not even fundamentally sound."

"The same problem faces the experienced breeder. Once he wins a top ribbon he feels he should stop showing because at another show he may be placed out of the money or ribbons."

The writer suggested that a score card be set up for the guidance of judges and that they be required to mark it giving reasons for their placings. And, possibly with tongue in cheek, Kay Meston further suggested that across the top of the card

MULTIPLE JUDGE SYSTEM STRESSED

Lately there has been certain criticism levelled at beef cattle judges by exhibitors who claim the arbiters seldom, if ever, compare their show ring placings against carcasses of slaughtered animals. In other words, they are contending that at times the champion show ring animals aren't in big red letters would be a notation that no unsound horses were to be placed in the ribbons. She also was in favor of seeing a multiple judge system put into effect. This would entail the appointment of a senior judge for a show, together with one or more junior judges. All judges would mark cards and then comparisons made before the senior judge made his placings. To further assist the job of the judges, Miss Meston suggested culling committees were the ideal method of eliminating unsound animals from the show ring.

It was not the primary purpose of the article to criticize unfairly the work of horse show judges, whose job is not the easiest at the best of times, but to offer suggestions that would make it easier for judges to render a better job.

As a result of requests from various sections of the country, the Board of Directors, of the American Horse Shows Association at the Santa Barbara meeting, approved the holding of Regional Championship classes for those riders who have qualified for the finals of the Hunting Seat, Saddle Seat or Stock Saddle Seat Medal competitions.

The Vice President of each zone may request permission of the Association to hold a championship class or two or more Vice Presidents may request permission to hold a championship class including several zones. Application must be made at least sixty days in advance of the holding of the championship.

These classes shall be held prior to the finals at a show designated by the Vice Presidents of the zones and subject to the approval of the appropriate Equitation Committee. They shall be conducted under the same regulations as the finals and a minimum of five competitors are required for each class.

Intern'l Equestrian Organization

On June 26th the International Equestrian Organization held its third annual F.E.I. show with all F.E.I. jumping and dressage classes. The show was held at Mr. & Mrs. George A. Roye's Bri-Mar Stables, York, Pa.

There were from ten to fifteen different and varied obstacles in the various classes and none had to be jumped twice. As it has been proven before, and was again this year, the participants found it a real challenge for a skillful rider on a well trained horse to try for the best time and yet ride carefully enough to have a faultless round.

Our dressage classes were well filled with more entries than in any past show. The performances were generally quite nice, the main trouble, however, seemed to be the tendency of many riders to use stirrups of insufficient length and to ride in a rather forward seat. There were, however, a few dressage riders who showed a very fine correct deep seat. Several of the ribbon winners in these classes competed successfully on their same horses in the jumping events.

The show was to be judged by Baron Imre de Rohonczy, however, due to unforeseen circumstances the baron was unable to be with us. We were extremely fortunate and grateful to Gen. Harry Dissertor for coming to our aid at very short notice and doing a wonderful job.

During the afternoon the I.E.O. presented a dressage and haute ecole exhibition by Mrs. Lillian Roye on the Arabian gelding "Samarra" kindly lent to the group by Mrs. Jane Henderson of Stockton, New Jersey.

PONY CLUB'S INTEREST IN THE CANADIAN OLYMPIC TEAM

The Pony Club in Canada is taking a double interest in the progress of the Canadian Olympic 3-Day Event Team to compete in Rome, Italy in September, for both patriotic reasons and because all members of the team are former members of the Pony Club who passed their A Test at one time. Three of the team riders are married with young families. Their wives, incidentally, were also Pony Club members. Tom Gayford married the former Alice Scott, Jim Elder married Mary Ann Plaxton, and Brian Herbinson married Silvia Rhynd. Norman Elder, Jim's younger brother, is a university student and the youngest member of the team. John Rumble, reserve rider, has been associated with the Olympic Team since Canada's first venture in 1952. He helped earn the Bronze Medal at Stockholm in 1956 with Jim Elder and Brian Herbinson. Sickness prevented him from riding in 1952 at Helsinki when Tom Gayford rode his horse because the latter's went lame. On that occasion Maj. L. J. McGuinness and H. Stewart Treviranus completed the Canadian Team. Broadview

MISSOURI-IAWA REGIONAL RALLY

The regional Pony Club rally was completed with facility in spite of rain, mud, and harried parents. All teams showed well. Some were competing for the first time and still managed to perform with ease and dispatch. The standings are as follows:

Laura Carpenter first in individual points; Otis Brown, Jr., first in the individual B. division teams; in the C division

- Bridlespur 1st, Raccoon Valley 2nd, Rapid Creek 3rd, and Mission Valley 4th. In the D division, Bridlespur boys 1st, Bridlespur girls 2nd, Rapid Creek 3rd.

Bridlespur sent a C team to the National Rally composed of Florence Shinkle, Laura Carpenter, Molly Lloyd, Nina Ware, and Judy Ware. Mrs. Frank Lloyd went as the sponsor and was accompanied by Mrs. J. Boyd Ware, Mrs. Clarkson Carpenter, and Mrs. Andrew Shinkle.

Thanks are due to Mrs. John Dube and Mrs. Clarkson Carpenter who entertained during the evenings following the Pony Club events. Miss Mary Barada and Mr. Dave Kratz helped mount this team for the National Rally.

Jim Weedon - His Hounds

Ancient Colored Man, Born in the Shadow

Of the Hunt, Has His Last "Fox Race"

Samuel J. Henry

Old time colored men, particularly those born and raised in the shadow of foxhunting, squirrel shooting and kindred sports, have always held a fascinating interest for me. Indeed, I am indebted to them for a vast fund of woodland lore, which otherwise I might never have acquired.

Jim Weedon was one of these old timers. He lived in a settlement called Crows-town, tucked in the pines off the Persimmon Tree Road, Montgomery County, Maryland, which eventually became a part of the Potomac Hunt's domain. In the course of early morning horseback rides I frequently came on Jim and his buddy, Croom Gamilton, as they "hilltopped" after Jim's hounds vociferously chasing a fox. At other times, when I did not hear the sweet music, I stopped at Jim's white-washed cabin to have him tell, aye boast, about the prowess of certain individuals in his pack.

"Now that Mary Annie ain't much on looks and she's no strike hound," Jim would declare pointing to a scrawny yellow and white bitch, "but when the other dogs get a fox going, she's sho' in there hot footin' him. And what a voisel Why, when she's givin' tongue you can hear her clear over to Great Falls on the Potomac." Or Jim might dwell on the merits of a rangy black and tan, Reuben by name. "That Reuben, all by himself over there in the corner of the pen, is what they call a mute runner; it's when the fox goes to den that Reuben really opens up. Then he wails like a wet ghost. It gives you the creeps."

Of dignified manner and Chesterfieldian courtesy, Jim loved to fish and hunt. One bitter cold day, when his gun went off accidentally and injured him, he almost froze to death before rescuers came to his aid. His coffee colored face exhibited a distinct coppery hue and both cheeks looked as if they had been touched with rouge - unmistakable evidence of Indian blood.

The Fox Called Moses

One time I asked Jim if he had ever succeeded in trapping a fox. I knew of his skill in taking squirrels, rabbits and 'coons alive; in fact he had quite a collection of the latter caged on his place.

"I tried to catch foxes in traps," he replied, "but never had any success until I used sweet potatoes."

"You mean they fall for yams?" I said.

"Yes, sir, crazy about 'em, provided they're fried. Did you ever hear about a big red fox called Moses who used to hang out on Cabin John's Creek? One way or another he always beat my hounds. So after viewin' him many times and he flippin' his brush in my face, so to speak, I says to myself, if the dogs can't catch that Reuben, Jim will try his hand at trappin' the old scoundrel."

"How did you go about it?" I inquired. "Seems to me if Moses was able to outwit or outrun your hounds he would be smart enough to avoid any trap."

Jim looked at me in a patronizing way and grinned. "Maybe so and maybe not," he replied. "You know, Mr. Sam, foxes have feedin' trails which they cover every night. I picked a spot which I figured Moses would pass on his travels and dragged a rabbit skin over the ground leadin' up to a box set on oak boards. I propped up one end of the box on a figure 4 snare and baited it with a slightly burned sweet potato. When Moses came along the rabbit odor caught his attention and after he got a whiff of that scorched sweet, he crept up and reached for it. The box came down and he was my prisoner. Well, sir," Jim continued, "I had taken the handsomest fox you ever saw. Rich tawney pelt and big golden brush. People came from all 'round to look at him. But I just couldn't stand Moses pacin' up and down in that wired cage day and night, so I turned him loose. I think he died of old age."

When I first knew Jim some twenty years ago he was around sixty and active as a boy. He never took any care of himself and one time, after following his dogs in a sleet storm, he contracted a bad case of pneumonia from which he never fully recovered. The spark of hunting still flickered, however, and on a sunny January morning Jim went to the window of his cabin and gazed on the wickered pen, where his hounds were milling around. "Seems to me they're mighty fidgety, but seein' that they haven't been out much of late, I guess I can't blame 'em. 'Member when we used to go out every day, Croom?"

"Sho' do," replied Croom, "and we generally stayed out 'til dark."

His Last Hunt

"It's been a fine open winter, so far this year. Maybe a little too dry. But it won't last much longer, I reckon," said Jim, wistfully. "How 'bout turnin' Rueben, Mary Annie and the rest of 'em loose?"

"Good idea," replied Croom, handing Jim his old cowhorn. "Bound to do you a lot of good to hear 'em run and I sort of would enjoy it myself." Croom wrapped Jim's emaciated frame in a blanket, led him to the bench outside and turned the hounds loose.

"Walk 'em to the big timber," Jim said. "Then come back and sit with me. I'm awful weak, Croom, and I don't believe I'll live to see snow."

Croom and the little pack moved off. In the surrounding fields row after row of shocked corn stood like guards in military precision, garrulous bluejays shrieked in the giant sycamores down by the creek, and a small patch of mackerel clouds crept into the flawless sky.

Now a hound spoke, eagerly, then another, with equal enthusiasm, and in a few minutes, with their fox on foot, the wild full cry swelled into a riot of music. Croom smiled as he thought of the pleasure it was giving Jim, up there on the bench. "Just the thing to cheer him up," Croom murmured as, retracing his steps, he made his way back to the cabin.

He found Jim, head on chest, slumped over on the bench. The horn lay at his feet. "I shook him and spoke to him," Croom explained. "He didn't answer and I knew he had passed on. I looked for fox huntin' to pull him thru the winter, but I guess the excitement of that last race was just too much. I'll sure miss Jim."

It snowed the next day.

West Tennessee Pony Club

West Tennessee Pony Club's Mrs. Charles Hart, Jr. gave birth to a completely new idea in hopes of raising money to send the horses of its "little" D team 450 miles to the North Carolina-Kentucky-Tennessee Rally at Lexington.

Mrs. Hart, the D Team's enthusiastic coach, worked into the night making the fanciest of ribbons and organizing the event to perfection. All was done in less than two weeks' time.

The show was called "Family Fun and Gymkhana". All ages were invited to participate - and it was fun! Riders turned out in droves in spite of the heat. The sprinkling truck owned by the Bayard Boyles for use at their country home was operated in the ring and on the outside course by Pony Clubber Harvey Sanders to keep down dust clouds.

The outstanding Pair Class would have been a credit to the A.H.S.A. and gave a note of dignity to the otherwise "fun" show.

The efforts of Mrs. Hart and her hard working committees were not in vain for W.T.P.C.'s little D Team brought home the blue from the Rally at Lexington, for D's eleven and under. Team member, Vicki Medick, received the Individual High Score Award.

Mousehole Invitational

The first annual Mousehole Invitational Horse Show was the second of a series of invitational shows in the N.E. Hot Weather Summer Circuit. It was held at the stable of Mrs. Kenneth R. H. Read of Concord, Mass.

The classes for the circuits High Score Awards, Novice and Advanced Horsemanship, Working Hunters and Hunter Hacks, were well filled as usual. However the most popular classes were the steeplechase and the "awful-awful".

The steeplechase, where the horses performed individually and were judged on time, was held over a tricky mile cross-country course. Part was held in the open, the rest through heavy woods. Jumps in this class included a drop-jump, stone wall, an open ditch and a water jump. The "awful-awful", a mental hazard class, was enjoyed by riders and spectators alike. The jumps, which were certainly awful-awful (balloons, beach towels and cereal boxes), surprised many horses, while others jumped them without hesitation.

All in all, it was a very successful show, and everyone is looking forward to the next show in the circuit. L.W.

POLO

Guadalajara Polo

Sunday, July 14 marked the opening of Guadalajara's first polo tournament in four years. Organized by don Abelardo Garcia Ramirez, the round-robin series was held at the Guadalajara Country Club's new indoor-outdoor arena.

Three teams representing: Haciendas San Augustin, Huasoyo, and Huerta Vieja, played to a crowd of Mexicans and Americans who turned out for four days of tournament play to officially welcome polo back to Guadalajara, Jalisco.

In the first day of tournament play, Huasoyo defeated San Augustin 6 to 3, putting Huasoyo into a lead that would hold throughout the tournament.

In the second game San Augustin overran Huerta Vieja 7 to 3 placing Huasoyo and San Augustin in the lead for the championship.

The third game brought Huasoyo face to face with San Augustin once again, resulting in the tournament's most exciting clash for the lead. At the end of the final period the teams were held to a 4 to 4 tie and by tournament ruling, had to continue in a sudden-death play-off following a 10 minute rest. It was rapid scoring by Jorge Garcia R. that set the score to 5-Huasoyo, 4-San Augustin putting the trophy virtually within reach of that winning team.

In the fourth and final tournament game, underdog Hacienda Huerta Vieja pushed "champion" Huasoyo to defeat with the tournament's most decisive win, 9-4. In spite of the overwhelming defeat, Huasoyo still retained the lead taking the championship by 1 point.

San Augustin - 1. Lic. Guadalupe Covarrubias; 2. Carlos Garcia R.; 3. Don Abelardo Garcia R.

Huasoyo - 1. Ing. Mario Collignon; 2. Ing. Hugo Barragan; 3. Jorge Garcia R. Hacienda Huerta Vieja - 1. Lic. Gonzalez Gallo; 2. Steve Smith; 3. Harvey Smith; Substitute: Tony Herrera.

Following the tournament, a selection was made of the top six players to compete in a championship game.

Selected to represent the blue team were the three Garcia brothers, Abelardo, Jorge, and Carlos. Playing for the white team were Harvey and Steve Smith of Scottsdale, Arizona and Tonio Herrera of Guadalajara. Playing hard, fast polo, the white team swept into the lead in the first period, 3 to 1. However in the second period the blue team tied the score and added one more goal before the whistle.

In the third period the score crept upward for both teams settling at 7 to 5. A final burst of energy on the part of the blue team left the score 10 to 6 in the fourth and final period. H.A.S.

Blue Team - 1. Carlos Garcia R.; 2. Jorge Garcia R.; 3. Abelardo Garcia R.; Scoring: Carlos Garcia 2, Jorge Garcia 4, Abelardo 4.

White Team - 1. Tonio Herrera; 2. Steve Smith; 3. Harvey Smith; Scoring: Tonio Herrera 3, Steve Smith 2, Harvey Smith 1.

Meadow Brook downed Jericho with Dev Milburn Jr., scoring three times for his team. Steve Kaye scored the first goal in the opening minutes of the game which was then matched by Madlener to tie the score. Meadow Brook scored twice in the third which was tied by two by Frank Rice. In the third Lev Miller scored twice and Milburn once to put Meadow Brook in the lead which they never relinquished. Frank Rice scored three times for the losers.

The Northeast Intracircuit 12 Goal that was scheduled was defaulted by Jericho due to the fact that one of their players was unable to return from a business trip in time. Meadow Brook won this game by reason of default which enables them to play in the finals.

The Beth Page game was called due to the fact that there were not sufficient players for two teams.

Trailing 3-0 in the opening chukker, the Rancheros bounded back with 15 consecutive goals to rout the Wranglers 15-3 in the St. Francis hospital benefit polo match.

Played on the O. S. Wagner farm on Big Hollow road, the match netted the St. Francis Service Guild an estimated $8,000 and drew an estimated 500 fans.

The Rancheros - Jerry Horn, Mel Greene and Roger Miller - trailed 3-1 after the opening chukker but then produced four goals in round two, four more in the third chukker and finished with six in the final stanza while holding the Wranglers completely at bay.

Horn and Miller each had five goals and Greene scored four. The other goal was credited to a pony's convenient kick in a melee close to the Wrangler goal.

The Wranglers leaped to their quick lead when John Miles used two swings of his mallet to score from far out, Bill Defenbaugh scored on a foul shot and Miles popped home a second goal from right in front of the Ranchero goal.

Horn broke the ice for the Rancheros late in the first chukker and the score was quickly tied in the second period when the pony's foot and Horn's foul shot tied the score. Horn scored again on a short shot and Green tallied after a missed foul to put the Rancheros up 5-3 at the intermission.

Miller scored twice, once on a long swing of his mallet, and Horn and Greene bagged one goal apiece in the third chukker. Miller then paced the fourth stanza outburst with three goals with Greene getting two and Horn one.

Mrs. Roger Miller won the exhibition jumping contest put on by the Twin Hills Stable jumping team during the intermission.

Rancheros	1 4 4 6	15
Wranglers	3 0 0 0	3

Goals: Rancheros - Roger Miller 5, Jerry Horn 5, Mel Greene 4. (One goal awarded to pony.)

U. S. Combined Training Forum

In connection with the Three Day Event sponsored by the Green Mountain Horse Association at South Woodstock, Vermont, and under the direction of H. Stewart Treviranus, the U.S. Combined Training Association held a Forum on Saturday afternoon, July 30th, 1960, to discuss problems connected with the organization of Combined Training Events and Horse Trials. Members of the Board of Governors present included Philip Hofmann, president; Edward Harris, vice-president; A. Mackay-Smith, secretary; H. Stewart Treviranus, Technical Advisor; the Misses Iris Winthrop, Lana duPont and Donnan Sharp; and Donald Patterson, Dr. Joseph Rogers, Roger Maher and John Fritz. Also present were Col. F. W. Appleton, F. G. Harting, William F. Shaw, Dr. Samuel Birch, Mrs. Igor Presnikoff, Mrs. Stewart Treviranus, Charles Collins, and the Misses Mandy McCormick, Mary Oakes Skinner, Peggy Hall, Barbara Jeffrey, Patricia F. Skinner and Beryl Sexton. The following topics were discussed.

Sanction of U.S.C.T.A.

The Organizing Committee of a Combined Training Event or Horse Trials may obtain the sanction of the U.S. Combined Training Association by taking out individual memberships; obtaining Rule Books; securing an approved date; securing a Steward appointed by the U.S.C.T.A.; having the courses approved by the Steward or other designated official.

Steward

The Steward appointed by the U.S.C.T.A. will inspect the courses, interpret the rules, handle protests and will furnish a report to the U.S.C.T.A. Secretary and a copy of the same to the Organizing Committee.

Manager

The functions of the Manager (if any) of a Combined Training Event or Horse Trials should not in any way infringe on the duties and authority of the Steward.

Judges

The Judges are appointed by the Organizing Committees. For their benefit the Secretary of the U.S.C.T.A. maintains a list of approved Judges.

Dressage Judges

Dressage Judges should keep in mind that the standard and quality of performance required in these events should be considered in the light of the fact that the horses competing are cross-country horses rather than Grand Prix Dressage horses. The desirability of training junior Judges by using them as clerks for senior Judges was stressed.

Fence Judges

The responsibility of the Chief Fence Judge is to see that score sheets at each fence are collected at frequent intervals and delivered to the Chief Scorer. Individual Fence Judges could well use and train junior assistants. At the recent Pebble Beach Three-Day-Event, the course was patrolled by mounted members of the local Pony Club who blew whistles to warn Fence Judges of approaching horses.

Chief Scorer

It is the duty of the Chief Scorer to see that results are computed accurately and posted promptly. In order to retain the interest of participants and the public, it is often advisable to make provisional postings, subject to final correction.

of the U. S. Jumping Team. After the Russians took over Hungary he was put to work in a mine, finally making his escape during the Hungarian uprising.

Prince Ludwig formerly owned extensive estates in Hungary on which were raised Sarvar horses, a breed developed by crossing Arabian and Thoroughbred sires on native mares. Enough of these were saved from the Russians to carry on the stud at Leutstetten which now includes a total of about 90 stallions, broodmares and young stock. They stand 15.3 to 16.0 hands, mostly bays and browns, hard, tough horses with excellent legs and feet and quiet dispositions. They move freely and with natural cadence, can carry a lot of weight on their excellent backs and loins, and have the sloping shoulders and well developed withers of the cross-country horse. With plenty of front, their necks are put on like polo ponies, in which sport they would doubtless be outstanding.

The stud consists of four large stables, not in the open country, but set among the houses of the village. Surrounding these are about 500 acres of paddocks where the mares, foals and young stock almost knocked us down reaching for the sugar with which we were provided. The whole procedure was most good humoured, however, not a hoof being raised against horse or human. The stallions were shown in hand

To Hell With Kids

Dear Sir:

It might not be such a hot idea to take all of the kids currently cluttering up the horse show rings and bridle paths out and hang them by their thumbs. But, there's the germ of an idea there.

Fact is, they're giving a pretty good sport a devil of a name. Things keep up the way they are going and pretty soon riding will end up classified somewhere between hop-scotch and hoop rolling. What's needed is a real-good infusion of adults who care little about breaking their heads.

Now take the case of Susie. Susie is a nice enough little girl who's ugly as a mud fence. Mommy knows she's ugly and Poppy is resigned to the fact that the marriage produced a dud. She's about as graceful as a lump of lead and the boys in her 8th grade class go out with girls in the 6th grade instead.

But, Susie must shine so that the proud parents have something to brag about. So, Susie starts to ride a horse. Poppy buys a horse, tack, trailer, trainer, board, entry fees and a little bit of pride.

Then a miracle happens. Susie gets her teeth straightened. Something mysterious happens to her figure and the pig-tails are lopped off by the beauty shop. Lipstick is added and the boys begin taking a second look.

Yipes! Susie is a success. Poppy's proud and Mommy's ecstatic. Naturally the horse is no longer needed to add spice and disappears. Poppy sells everything.

Then, along comes another Susie and for five or six years gives the horse thing a whirl. The same cycle repeats itself and by the time Susie is 18 to 20 she's hot-footing it after the boys, marrying and opening up a vine-covered cottage. By the time Susie's 35, there's just a slim chance that she'll get on a horse and ride again. But the chance is slim.

Someplace, somewhere along the line, somebody forgot to latch on to Susie's mommy and poppy, boost their bulk up on a sleepy nag and send them out to bounce around the trails with their daughter. Somehow that someone let the parent's "Really I haven't ridden in years" excuse put a period to the attempt.

Boy, were they overlooking a gold mine.

Take a look at the statistics which we have just concocted.

Mommy and Poppy have just about raised Susie. There's a nest egg or income in sight to pay for the college education and the wedding. Poppy has reached the point in life where he's pretty sure of having enough to eat on and a little more for fun. Life has pretty well settled down into a routine and is (let's face it) boring as hell.

Poppy - and Mommy need something. Maybe a boat might do it, but a boat requires practically no skill unless the thing is equipped with sails. The "old folks" with the outboard get no sense of accomplishment, no return of that feeling generated by a touchdown made back in the old college days. Boats are pretty dull, impersonal.

There's golf, sure. That's a helluva competitor.

But horses. Ah! Lookit, fellows what we have in a newly captured mommy and poppy who go into horses. The "old folks" are between 34 and 40 with a good 25 to 30 years saddle time ahead of them. Pop is a heavy man and he needs a big horse - and he'll pay for it. Mom is a bit timid - or ambitious - and wants a littler horse, but a real pretty horse and she'll see that Poppy pays for it. The trailer should shine and maybe they'll even go so far as to purchase a small "estate" (patched up rundown farm). Thus horse dealers are happy, saddle and bridle sellers are happy and real estate men are also happy.

Then comes the day. The "old folks" have learned to post, to hop over a jump and have boots and breeches to prove it. They want to compete in a horse show.

Cripes, it's happened again. The later-day Susie is back in the ring. The new Susie, like the old Susie, is pounds lighter and has that youthful agility that so slowly but constantly drains from the older frames. The "old folks" haven't a chance and the people who put on the horse shows just don't put on enough 30-year-and-older classes.

To hell with the kids!

Sincerely,
Sourpuss

good, and giving these same individuals the opportunity to refuel financially.

In the long run, all will benefit. Instead of handling that old, sticky money over and over again, the tracks will find clean, newly-pressed currency going through the fingers of their mutuels men.

Best of all, though, those noisy, shoving crowds will be eliminated and people will have a chance to enjoy the sport.

Second Question: What objection is heard most from the thinking race-goer?

Discussion: It depends, of course, what he is thinking about. If it's how to make a buck betting the horses, his mind will be dwelling upon the excessive take (percentage extracted from his money by (a) the track, for keeping the gambling game going, and (b) the state, for permitting the sinful practice to exist).

It does not require a Turf journalist-economist to recognize that a horse-player making a modest living with a ten percent take is likely to become a ward of the state if the grab goes up to 15 per cent.

Unfortunately, no statistics have been compiled revealing how many formerly solvent bettors, (in the states where the take went up sharply) were put on relief when the higher charge for wagering was instituted. The number must be staggering and the cost to the state incalculable.

If the tariff were dropped to eight or ten per cent an honest bettor could make a decent living again and the state would be relieved of the cost of supporting these people.

Solution: Go the whole hog and cut the take to five per cent, so even the favorite players will show a profit. Then, practically everyone would have money to spend and the national economy will be stabilized (without a war).

It's worth thinking about.

GREY LAG

The umpteenth running of the Grey Lag at Aqueduct late in April, not only marked the return of Sword Dancer to the form that made him the best in the country last year, but that race had some stories attached to it.

First of all, Grey Lag, the animal for which the race was named, was one of the few horses of history which kept running past his three-year-old year and retired with as many wins as losses. Grey Lag won 25 times out of 47 starts. The second greatest of all, Exterminator (*Phar Lap was number one), won 50 out of 100, and Native Dancer won 21 out of 22. Count Fleet and Man o' War didn't run after their three-year-old years. Among other good races, Grey Lag won the 1921 Brooklyn Handicap and the Dwyer at the old Aqueduct, beating Old Bones in the former.

For his 25 wins, Grey Lag accumulated a bank account of only $136,715. An average two-year-old can win that much these days without ever leaving New Jersey.

The third horse to finish in the 1960 Grey Lag was Whitley which is trained by Max Hirsch. It was the same Max Hirsch who bought Grey Lag as a weanling and started him racing. When the animal was two, Harry Sinclair's Rancocas stable offered Hirsch $60,000 for him. In those days, $60,000 was the equivalent in purchasing power of somewhat under a quarter of a million dollars today. Mr. Hirsch sold Grey Lag.

When the fine runner was through on the track, trainer Sam Hildreth retired him to Hildreth's own farm at Jobstown, New Jersey and subsequently let the local vet have him as a saddle horse. Both Hildreth and the vet died shortly thereafter and Grey Lag turned up in Canada, running as a claimer. Mr. Sinclair's office heard about Grey Lag's plight and immediately bought him and retired him again. This time, the retirement stuck and Grey Lag died on the Sinclair farm (now the Helis farm) and is buried nearby. R. J. Clark

British Training Costs

J. Fairfax-Blakeborough

It used to be said that 'the little man' was the backbone of racing. Invariably the owner of one, or a couple of horses only, is a true sportsman at heart. He is also apt to have considerable horse knowledge and experience, plus a deep-rooted affection for the Thoroughbred. He often makes considerable sacrifice to gratify his affection for racing and considers himself lucky if he is not out of pocket at the end of each season.

In the north we have always had more of this type of genuine sportsmen than is found in most other parts of Great Britain. I have always had the greatest admiration and respect for them and have looked upon them as the salt of the Turf.

BALLY ACHE, "the millionaire", gallops to victory in a special six furlongs exhibition race at Atlantic City. He ran the three quarters of a mile in 1.10 2/5 and is being prepped for the $100,000 invitational United Nations Handicap at the New Jersey oval on Sept. 17th.

(Atlantic City, Turfotos)

It would be a sorry day for racing, a break with tradition, and a loss of character to the sport if the small owner and trainer should be crowded out in these days of 'big business', and of ever increasing cost of keeping horses in training and running them.

A well-known northern owner-breeder, who has played the racing game all round for over half-a-century, and whose father & other members of his family, bred and ran horses before him, has written me a disturbing letter. He envisages the disappearance of the little trainer and of the type of owner with two or three horses, who support such trainers. Here is an extract from his letter:

With the rise in all overhead charges the small owner-breeder and most little trainers cannot hope to carry on. They will have to leave racing to the big betting men, the wealthy owner-breeder, and the powerful large string trainers. This is a shocking prospect for the poor but loyal supporters of the Turf (usually sportsmen in the true sense of the term), and for the little trainer. The big men can look after themselves, so why add more money to rich sponsored races instead of to small events, and to the usually miserable amounts given to the owners of the second & third? No race should be less than 300 pounds to the winner; 60 pounds to the second and 40 pounds to the third.

As a corollary to the foregoing it is interesting to quote a Newmarket trainer's bill to an Yorkshire owner in 1885. This was shown to some of us last week in the clerk of the course's office at Beverley races and aroused a lot of interest. From the charges it would seem that Newmarket trainer's fees varied from 2-10 to 3 pounds -10 shillings per week per horse, and about 10 pounds (some little trainers less) in the provinces. Trainers say these charges to do pay them, most owners say they cannot pay more. I have given initial letters in place of the names of the horses mentioned on the 1885 Newmarket trainer's bill:

Horse A. From July 1st to Sept 30, 32, 10.

Clothes 7/s Tonics 21/s, - 1, 8.
Horses B. & C. In training same period (each) - 38, 18.

Horse D. Expenses to Liverpool to run - 18, 5.

Horse D. Expenses to Paisley Races - 21, 0.

Horse D. Expenses to Doncaster - 12, 12.

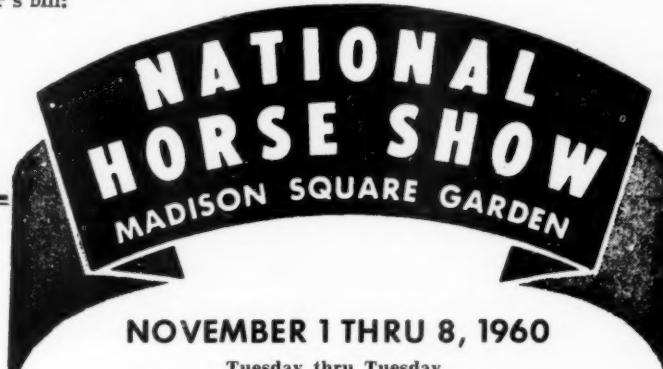

Horse E. Training fees July 24 to October 9 - 24, 12.

Expenses from Sandown Park - 1, 10.
Horse F. Training June 11th to Sept 30 - 39, 5.

Horse G. Training fees June 11th to Sept 30th - 42, 15.

The owner who received the bill for 297 pounds-2-6 for eight horses would not now be able to keep one horse at Newmarket and run it for the amount it cost to have eight in 1885.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: - Although the author laments current British training costs of slightly less than $5.00 a day, they are still much cheaper than American costs which run nearly three times this amount per day. On the other hand, American purse distribution is very much higher than British purse distribution - a compensating factor.)

AMERICAN DEAUVILLE PURCHASES

At the recent Yearling Sales at Deauville (France), Raymond Guest, of New York, bought from the consignment of M. Goudchaux the second highest lot - the bay filly Marauda (Vandale-Marigold by Panipat), a full sister to the stakes winner Marijuana, best sprinter of her year, to the stakes winner Marivaux and to other good winners, for which he gave approximately $40,000. Other American purchasers included Ricard Ohrstrom (filly by Sicambre, colt by Alizier); G. L. Ohrstrom, Jr. (filly by Prince Bio); Mrs. Theodore Weicker (colt by Vandale); Robert Lehman (filly by Sicambre); Alvin Untermyer (colt by Soleil Levant, fillies by Mourne and Silnet).

SUSAN CHASE

A promising career in horsemanship was ended abruptly on Saturday, August 6th, when Susan Chase, 17, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Tytus, member of the Camargo Hunt, was fatally injured at the Dayton Horse Show.

In recent years Susan has won many blue ribbons. At the Greater Toledo Horse Show she won the working hunter stake and the pairs of hunter class. At the Dayton Show Susan was called back first on performance three times and she won the handy working hunter class. She also won the junior working hunter class with brilliant riding on Avon Girl.

Susan's outstanding personality and her fine sportsmanship will live on in the hearts of her many friends and admirers.

RETIRED

John N. Simpson, of Dallas, general livestock agent for the Texas and Pacific railroad, and who handled all the big shipments of Thoroughbreds on arrival at Arlington Downs during the days racing flourished in the Lone Star State, has retired after more than three decades with the T & P. Simpson, who also claims Arlington and Fort Worth as homes, was born at Weatherford, and graduated from Texas A & M College. His brother, General Hood Simpson, who also was born in Weatherford, as was fabled Mary Martin, contributed some colorful pages to the Nation's history. Gen. Simpson died some years ago.

MARYLAND FALL SALE

Entries close on Monday, September 12, for the Maryland Fall Sale to be held on October 10 at the Timonium Fair Grounds, Timonium, Md. This sale is open to yearlings, weanlings, race horses and breeding stock of all ages. Since there will be no sale of yearlings in New Jersey this year, this will be the only opportunity to sell yearlings in the East this fall.

NAMED TO A.V.A. BOARD

Horsemen and stockmen in the vicinity of Kerrville, Texas, long recognized as the cradle of Thoroughbred breeding, were elated to learn that Dr. R. D. Radeoff, DVM, who has been pioneering various phases of his profession in recent years, had been named to the Board of Directors for the American Veterinary Association. Old time horsemen recall Kerrville as the original site of the Morris ranch, which sent Maxie Hirsch to the racing wars as a boy, and the Schreiner Bros.' nursery, which was home to scores of fabled gallopers in days gone by. MR. WEBSTER'S MARTIAL

Reginald Webster of N.Y. has decided to retire to stud in Ireland his 2,000 Guineas winner, Martial, by the American-bred sire Hill Gail. Venture VII, who he beat in the Guineas, recently turned the tables when in receipt of 6 lbs. from his former conqueror and beat him half a length at the Goodwood meeting.

AVALANCHE, NEW ZEALAND
SIX BARS' CHAMPION

For three years in succession, Avalanche has won the national title for the Six Bars competition in New Zealand. So named because of her large blaze, Avalanche is a 15.2 mare by a Thoroughbred and out of a heavy mare. She has a wall-eye, and three white socks. Nevertheless she sights the fences remarkably, and clears them well, white socks and all.

She was hunted as a two-year-old, and shown at three; entered in FEI jumping classes when these were first introduced into New Zealand, she took to it like a swallow, and won the main event at the first school.

The highest she has ever needed to jump to win any of her many Six Bars is 5 ft. 8 in. after a five-barrage jump-off.

Her owner, rider, and breeder is Mr. J. M. McIldowie from Poverty Bay in the North Island of New Zealand. On Avalanche he has been a team member for his district on many occasions. His team has won once and been runner-up once for the Rutherford Cup, the national Teams' trophy.

A full-brother to Avalanche is Mandalay, an 8-year-old grey gelding, also successfully jumped by J. M. McIldowie. He has often chased Avalanche along in the Six Bars, has won speed contests, and has qualified for the Victor Ludorum, New Zealand's premier solo award.

outside the main barn, where a few mares and geldings were also exhibited under saddle. Prince Ludwig is himself an active horseman, fully conversant with every animal, and conducted us throughout the stud himself, answering a host of questions. To see this fine and heretofore unfamiliar breed in this beautiful setting, with the Alps for background, was a most interesting and pleasant experience.

The next was the only day during our stay in Germany when we were bothered by rain, although they had previously had an especially wet summer. In the morning we went to Tierpark Hellabrunn, the best place in the world to see, in adjoining enclosures, numerous specimens of the Przewalski, the primeval horse of the Asian Steppes; the Tarpan, primitive horse of the European forests; and the Asian Onager, a species of wild ass, the first equine to be domesticated by man. Later in the morning we saw Schloss Nymphenburg with its marvellous collection of carriages, sleighs, harness and horse portraits, housed in the 18th century coach house and stables. Another appreciated item, hung in a single room, were the portraits of some 40 court beauties commissioned by King Ludwig II—surely the original pin-up girls. In the afternoon we spent a couple of hours in Alte Pinakothek, all too short a time to see one of the world's greatest picture collections, now further enriched because it contains the treasures of several smaller German museums and churches which have not yet been able to repair the ravages of World War II.

Chief Timer

The Chief Timer should be provided with a principal clock or chronometer with which stopwatches are synchronized. Normally speaking, there will be one stopwatch for each horse (usually not more than 3 horses are on the course at one time). Possible use of electric equipment and time clocks was also discussed.

Marking Cross-Country Courses

As flags are difficult to see under unfavorable wind and weather conditions, it is suggested that courses be marked with metal, plastic or wood markers to indicate the numbers of the fence, the penalty zones before and after the fences, the side markers between which the horse must go, the directional markers between fences, and the mileage markers on cross-country courses and on roads and trails.

Combined Training Kit

The U.S.C.T.A. will explore the possibility of having a commercial saddler or other supplier assemble and sell a complete Combined Training Event and Horse Trials kit which would include such items as scoreboard, scoring forms, timing devices, course numbers and markers and competitors numbers including number jackets for the endurance phases and arm bands or bridle numbers for the dressage phases.

Public Attendance

In addition to an adequate public relations program, the advisability was stressed of placing the more interesting and difficult jumps so as to be readily visible. A good communications system, often available from local military units, and a running description on the microphone broadcast by loudspeakers carried on by someone who is thoroughly familiar with the type of event, the individual course and the individual horses and riders, is of the greatest assistance in arousing and maintaining public interest.

Rules And Tests

It was the unanimous feeling of the meeting that the U.S. Combined Training Association should make every effort to keep its rules few and its dressage tests simple.

Board of Governors

It was decided to submit to the next meeting of the Board of Governors the question of minimum weight in the Open Division of Three Day Events now fixed at 165 pounds in accordance with F.E.I. rules for such events. It was proposed that the weight for women be reduced to 154 pounds which would correspond with the F.E.I. rule for women in Prix des Nations Events. It was also pointed out that none of the women competing in the Vermont event rode at under 165 pounds. Also to be further considered by the Board of Governors are the questions of minimum age of horses and riders and the matter of opening Jenny Camp Trials to Intermediate and Open horses.
